Instructions & Guidelines

Before Your Health Check

- Please come on an empty stomach — fast for 10–12 hours before your appointment (you may drink water).
- Avoid alcohol and heavy exercise for at least 24 hours before testing.
- For female hormone / infertility tests, please check with our staff for the ideal day of the menstrual cycle for sampling.
- Bring any previous reports or prescriptions for comparison.
- X-ray is not recommended in pregnancy.

On the Day of Test

- Wear loose, comfortable clothing for ease of blood collection or scans.
- Some tests (like ultrasound abdomen / pelvis) may require a full bladder — please confirm beforehand.
- Ultrasound, ECG, and X-ray need to be done at the centre.
- Fasting samples and most blood tests can be collected at home if preferred.

Medication and Fasting Samples — What You Should Know

- Do not stop your regular medications unless your doctor specifically tells you to.
- Stopping medicines on your own can affect your health and test accuracy.
- For most routine fasting blood tests (sugar, cholesterol, liver, kidney, thyroid, etc.), you can take your medicines after the sample is collected.
- For diabetes medications or insulin:
 - Skip your morning dose before fasting sample collection.
 - Bring your medication with you — you can take it immediately after your blood is drawn and you've eaten.
- For thyroid medications (like Thyroxine):
 - Do not take it before your test if thyroid levels are being checked.
 - You can take it after your blood sample is given.
- For blood pressure, heart, or other regular medications:
 - These are usually safe to take even while fasting, unless told otherwise.
 - If unsure, confirm with your doctor or our lab team before collection.
